

Reading with Judges Northern District of Texas

Civics Education Project Courts of the Fifth Circuit

Judge Reno was excited to join her fellow ABOTA members in their recent public service project of reading aloud various books for elementary age students. Judges Kacsmiryk and Reno were able to host this great event at the Mary Lou Robinson Courthouse in December.

Eleven attorneys participated, along with five local judges. All the participating attorneys were members of the American Board of Trial Advocates. Both NDTX judges read aloud children's books, along with Judge Doug Woodburn, 108th District Court, Judge Pam Sirmon, 320th District Court, and Judge Walt Weaver, Potter County Court at Law No. 1. The selected titles were: We the Kids; One Vote, Two Votes, I Vote, You Vote; Grace for President; and The True Story of the 3 Little Pigs, along with the original The Three Little Pigs.

Each book was read several times by the different participants and was video recorded to be distributed to area schools and teachers for use in their classroom.
